WESTERN AUSTRALIA

Accreditation Policy

1 Purpose

- 1.1 The Constitution of the Baptist Union of Western Australia Incorporated (BUWA) defines an Accredited Person in Ministry as ‘persons who are approved by Council and recognised by Assembly in accordance with the provisions of the Accreditation Policy.’¹ It also empowers the BUWA² to clarify the role and responsibilities of an Accredited Person. The BUWA established a policy and associated guidelines for those seeking Accreditation as Pastors in 2007. The Council reviews the Accreditation Policy from time to time.
- 1.2 The Relationship Agreement between Churches includes the expectation that all local church pastoral appointees will apply for Registration with BUWA as a Person in Ministry within 6 months of appointment.³
- 1.3 Fully Accredited Persons whose Registration is current; and are in an appointed pastoral position in a member church or are in an appointed BUWA Inc. ministry OR are an active resident member of a member church and are awaiting a pastoral placement; are entitled to attend and vote at Assembly.⁴
- 1.4 The Accreditation Policy defines the responsibilities for the acceptance, maintenance, and removal of Registration as a Person in Ministry with BUWA.

2 Scope

- 2.1. The scope of this policy covers the Council, Director of Ministries, Member Churches of BUWA, associations seeking or gaining recognition of BUWA, persons seeking recognition as a Registered Person in Ministry and those already Registered as Local Appointments, Accreditation Candidates and Accredited Persons in Ministry.
- 2.2. A Person in Ministry refers to persons in pastoral appointments or positions of spiritual leadership in the context of BUWA ministries and local churches. Most churches use the title “pastor” or “minister” to refer to those in officially appointed pastoral leadership roles, including titles such as “Senior Pastor”, “Associate Pastor”, “Youth Pastor”, and so on. This title may also be applied to other specific ministry roles such as church planters, chaplains and leaders serving in other approved ministries. A Person in Ministry would normally meet the definition of the Australian Taxation Office as a ‘minister of religion’⁵: authorised, recognised, and acknowledged as a leader in spiritual affairs. This applies whether or not the person is paid.
- 2.3. Pastoral appointment or position of spiritual leadership means any role (paid or volunteer) in a local church or BUWA related ministry where the position description and duties are normally centred around the Word of God, the care of people and the equipping of God's people for service (Ephesians 4:11-16; Acts 6:2-4). Such a position must also be recognised by the local church, or BUWA as a formal ministry position, appropriately supervised and accountable to the local church membership, or BUWA, for the exercise of their ministry.

- 2.4. There are three kinds of Persons in Ministry:
- Local Appointments who have been appointed by a member church to a pastoral ministry position who may not meet all of the criteria for Accreditation, or may not seek to be Accredited, and have made application to BUWA to register and recognise their role.
 - Accreditation Candidates who have met Pre- Accreditation requirements and are Pastors in Training. This can include theological students, with or without a ministry position.
 - Accredited Persons who have:
 - o satisfied the requirements for Accreditation, as determined by the BUWA Council;
 - o requested that they be set apart to the ongoing work of the ministry, and
 - o been recommended for Accreditation by the Accreditation Team.
- 2.5. Member Churches, new groups, agencies and other recognised ministries are responsible for the appointment and supervision of their own staff, including Persons in Ministry.
- 2.6. From time to time, BUWA appoint staff and volunteers that require an appointee to be an Accredited Person in Ministry.
- 2.7. Registration is the successful outcome of recognition by BUWA of a Person in Ministry appointed by a member church; appointed by a group in the process of becoming a member church; appointed by BUWA; or appointed by a recognised ministry of BUWA.
- 2.8. Men and women are eligible to apply for Registration as a Person in Ministry, including as an Accredited Person in Ministry.⁶
- 2.9. Accreditation involves the certification of people as suitable for ministry within or on behalf of BUWA. It gives recognition of their having met specific requirements and that they possess appropriate qualifications, experience and credentials for such ministry.
- 2.10. Accredited Persons are those accredited as:
- Senior/Sole Pastors/Ministers, with 4 years of relevant study (Category 1) or
 - Specialist Ministers, with 2 years of relevant study (Category 2)
- 2.11. Accreditation may also be recommended to the BUWA Council for persons who present special characteristics that do not fully comply with the requirements for Accredited Persons.
- 2.12. All Persons in Ministry will be expected to meet Currency requirements. Currency is re-evaluated every 3 years.
- 2.13. Persons in Ministry will be given a status:
- Unregistered: for people who have been appointed to a ministry position by a member church and have not applied for Registration with BUWA. The use of the title Pastor, Chaplain or any other title designation is not recommended, nor endorsed, by BUWA. Unregistered persons in ministry should not represent themselves as a Pastor of BUWA.
 - Interested: for people who have not yet been appointed to a ministry position by a member church and have expressed interest in a pastoral position and/or Registration with BUWA through an 'Expression of Interest'. The use of the title Pastor, Chaplain or any other title designation is not given by BUWA, but may have been conferred by another accrediting body. Interested persons in ministry should not represent themselves as a Pastor of BUWA.
 - Local Appointment: for people who have been appointed by a member church to pastoral positions and do not qualify for, or do not desire, Accreditation. The use of the title Pastor, Chaplain or any other title designation is the responsibility of the local church. Local Appointments in ministry should not represent themselves as a representative of BUWA, unless authorised to do so by BUWA.

⁶ BUWA Statement on Men and Women in Ministry

- Accreditation Candidate: for people who have made application for Accreditation and have not yet fulfilled all requirements, including academic and experience requirements. Persons who are an Accreditation Candidate who also hold a pastoral position in a member church or a BUWA related ministry are entitled to use the prefix Ps (Pastor) and are endorsed by BUWA to do so. Accreditation Candidates are eligible to seek nomination as a Registered Marriage Celebrant.
- Interim Accreditation: for people working in a Baptist organisation but not attending a Baptist church. Reviewed annually. Persons who hold Interim Accreditation are entitled to use the prefix Ps (Pastor).
- Provisional Accreditation: for people who are transferring credentials from another State or Denomination; or have not yet met the normal requirements but have been approved by Council for Accreditation. Reviewed annually. Persons who hold Provisional Accreditation are entitled to use the prefix Ps (Pastor), are endorsed by BUWA to do so, and are eligible to seek nomination as a Registered Marriage Celebrant.
- Full Accreditation: for people who have fulfilled all the normal and usual requirements. Reviewed every 3 years. Persons who hold Full Accreditation are entitled to use the prefix Ps (Pastor) and are eligible to seek nomination as a Registered Marriage Celebrant. Persons holding Category 1 Accreditation may use the personal prefix Reverend (Rev), and are endorsed by BUWA to do so, and are expected to attend Assembly.⁷
